

Valuing Diversity: A Resource for Health Professional Training to Respond to Cultural Diversity (2nd Revised edition)

By Joe Kai

Royal College of General Practitioners. Hardback. Book Condition: new. BRAND NEW, Valuing Diversity: A Resource for Health Professional Training to Respond to Cultural Diversity (2nd Revised edition), Joe Kai, It is seven years since "Valuing Diversity" was first published in 1999 to critical acclaim, winning the BUPA Foundation Medical Communication award in 2000. Experience of teaching and learning to respond to diversity in health care is a little greater since publication of the first edition but models are still evolving. The case for their development and implementation continues to be underscored by concern about inequalities in health and access to quality health care. Recent events have heightened awareness of the need for such training of health professionals. Such currents create an ever more charged and challenging environment where how we think about, and respond to, cultural diversity is of vital importance. The second edition of "Valuing Diversity" retains the original aims and approach of the first: to stimulate diversity training in curriculum by providing introductory information, materials, and suggestions for interactive learning that educators might use, adapt, or develop in their training of health professionals. Other agencies and disciplines may also find the book helpful as a source of ideas...
