Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from American Political Ideas Viewed From the Standpoint of Universal History Three Lectures Delivered at the Royal Institution, of Great Britain in May, 1880, the Story of a New England Town Among the eminent thinkers of the last half-century, John Fiske will hold a permanent place by virtue of three things: the wide range and the accuracy of his knowledge; his profound philosophic insights, and his rare gift of simple lucid exposition. The original cast of his mind was of a philosophico-judicial nature. He intuitively sought a relationship among things observable by the human mind. Nothing in the universe stood out isolated from and unrelated to the Cosmos as a whole; and the Cosmos itself was, to him, but a manifestation of a related Infinite Eternal Unknowable, forever inscrutable in the reality of His existence to the finite mind of man: without whom the world would become like the shadow of a vision, and thought itself would vanish.
